FLACK IS IN DEATH HOUSE.

Not Electrocuted, as Thought, but Hoping to Dodge the Chair. In its report of the suicide of Angelo Leggio in the Sing Sing prison death house last Thursday. The Evening World stated that William Flack, who confessed that he had been employed by Leggie to kill Dominico Marino, had been electrocuted.

This statement was based on erreneous information from Ossining. Flack is still in the death house. His counsel, C. F. Kinsley of No. 346 Broadway, expects that in view of the service he rendered the State by testifying against Leggio, Flack will be saved from the electric chair.

FIRE IN TOMBS YARD.

A bucket brigade of keepers was formed at the Tombs prison at 6.40 o'clock this morning when fire was dis-covered in an old woodshed in the yard on the Franklin Street side. The water. arried from incide the prison, was insufficient, and Engine Company No. 31 was called from across the street. The damage was triviat, as the shed contained only prison sweepings.

Most of the prison windows were down because of the cold, and no smoke got inside, but when some of the prisoners became curious about the unusual excitement outside, keepers were sent to all the tiers to tell them there was no danger, and there was no excitement.
